what it take to be a Refugee in the 21st Century

Refugees are people who have fled from their countries due to war, They are being forced to leave out of the country because of fear or persecution of Race, nationality, political, pressure, poverty, sometimes environmental features and of war. until the person is recognised by the government he is an asylum.

Refugees are those who don't have freedom, Enough food, their lives become fed up and their happiness fades away. They survive alot to live.

People migrate due to economic problems & also rights they also have natural hazards like tsunami, Earth quakes, Landslide or Flood might cause. Their whole life depends on what their decision is. They are being helped by the unites, by the charity events and the un. These people move from place to places. people also migrate due to economic problems. These country they are living might be a country which has a high cost of living and a low income. This makes their way of living so hard so they migrate.

Government might rebuild their homes but still some people get neglected. It is very hard to be a refugee because they have to leave their home, family, friends and relations, relatives. Due to these worries people move onto better places where they can survive as well as have better living condition. Refugees have a low name in the society. But so many people are trying to help them and donate.
